Pueblos and their Ancestors: 4,000 Years Persevering in the Four Corners of the U.S. Southwest February 3, 10, 17, 24, and March 3, 2021, 10 AM - Noon,

Course Description: Many of us are familiar with and may have even visited the seemingly mystical places in the Four Corners of the U.S. Southwest on the Colorado Plateau including Mesa Verde, Chaco Canyon, Canyon de Chelly, and many more. These were the long-ago homes of people we know as Pueblo, who began farming in the region 4000 years ago. Their descendants – the Hopi, Zuni, Acoma, and Rio Grande Pueblos – retain strong spiritual connections to these places told through oral histories passed through generations. Together we will explore what made these places special then and even today, how did people survive and prosper in this harsh region, why did they leave these places, where did they go, and what can Pueblo people today tell us about their ancestors?

Instructor: E. Charles (Chuck) Adams, Curator Emeritus, Arizona State Museum, University of Arizona has lived and worked in the Four Corners region for more than 50 years, the last 35 with the Arizona State Museum (ASM). While at ASM, Adams directed research at ancestral Hopi villages near Winslow, AZ in collaboration with the Hopi Tribe. He has published numerous books and curated exhibits at ASM.
